 NOTES ABOUT ELIGIBILITY FOR THESE MEMBERSHIP RATES

When spouses or parents enroll together on the same plan, we use the age of the older spouse or parent to determine monthly dues and list the older spouse or parent as the subscriber on the account. If the subscriber's age advances from one age band into the next during the course of the year, we begin charging the subscriber the dues for the next higher age band effective the first of the month following the birthday.

Spouses may enroll as individuals in separate plans if preferred. Parents may enroll a child or children in a separate plan if desired.

When a parent enrolls a child individually in a separate plan, the child's age determines the monthly dues although the parent will be listed as the responsible subscriber on the child's account.

These rates are effective January 1, 2007, and are subject to change. They apply to applicants who pass a required medical review. The amounts are calculated on plan design, overall cost, utilization trends, the subscriber's age, and family members covered.
